Dräger donates medical equipment and masks for Ukraine

Dräger joins the "UKSH helps Ukraine" campaign and sends medical supplies and masks to hospitals in the war zone. Schleswig-Holstein University Hospital (UKSH) is working with the Ukrainian Ministry of Health and has been sending truckloads of urgently needed medical equipment to Lviv since the beginning of March.

- Dräger's "Technology for Life" is going to Ukraine in the fourth UKSH aid transport.

The donation heading to Ukraine includes equipment for the care of patients requiring surgery and ventilation, as well as equipment for the care of premature babies and sick newborns, and respirator masks. "We know that we can offer the best support through targeted and specific initiatives, guided by Technology for Life. We want to help in a concrete and uncomplicated way, directly where it is needed most. By working with UKSH, our contribution will do exactly that," explains Stefan Dräger, CEO of Drägerwerk Verwaltungs AG. It has been very difficult for Ukrainian hospitals to maintain their operations and the need for supplies and life-saving technology is high. Dr. Reiner Piske, Chief Sales and Human Resources Officer at Dräger, makes it clear, "With this donation, we are sending a clear sign of solidarity and support from Dräger towards those currently experiencing great suffering."

As part of the "UKSH helps Ukraine" campaign and other aid initiatives, Dräger is donating a total of EUR 400,000 worth of medical equipment and respirators to hospitals in Ukraine.
