Dräger and Florida Hospital to Share NICU Best Practices at Healthcare Design 2017

Telford, Pa. – Learn about proven design practices for neonatal ICUs (NICUs) at an exclusive panel at the Health Design Expo & Conference (HCD), Sunday, Nov. 12, from 5:30 p.m.-6:00 p.m., in Orlando.

Presented by Dräger, and including an array of clinicians and innovators from Florida Hospital, the panel will cover the latest information on clinical quality initiatives and new design tools. Throughout the event, at Booth #322, Dräger will also be demonstrating its 3D visualization software for the design of optimal care settings.

The first hospital in the U.S. to use Dräger’s Babyleo TN500 IncuWarmer, Florida Hospital has been the consecutive winner of “Best Regional Hospital” from U.S. News and World Report. Join Dr. Rajan Wadhawan, Chief Medical Officer and Medical Director of Neonatology, Ashley Simmons, Director of Innovation Development, and Lisa Morelli, Director of Nursing, Neonatal Intensive Care, to learn about Florida Hospital’s groundbreaking NICU and best practices for achieving developmental care concepts:

NICU Design Best Practices: A Panel Conversation with Medical and Innovation Development Leadership from Florida Hospital

Sunday, Nov. 12, from 5:30 p.m.-6:00 p.m. ET
The Solutions Theatre in the HCD Exhibit Hall

Executives from Dräger will also be on-hand throughout the event to discuss the latest healthcare design concepts. At Booth #322, learn more about the GeminaDUO, a wall-mounted supply column system for efficient, patient-centered workspaces, and the Ponta Ceiling Beam System for versatile positioning of medical equipment. Attendees can also demo Dräger’s 3D design tool, which helps healthcare organizations design optimal care environments.

The HCD Conference & Expo runs from Nov. 11-14, 2017, in Orlando.
